

From: ssmith@centralcss.org
To: JOHN CORLEY
Subject: Re: phone call
Date: 23-Feb-2015 14:31
Attachments: TEXT.htm [\[Save\]](#) [\[Open\]](#)
Message Id: 54EB39A3.do1.po1.200.20000A3.1.57648.1

Thank you for calling him! It sounds like it was the perfect answer. Was he really pushy about meeting face to face? Going to lunch? I can see one of us splashed across the Central paper with some horrific incorrect statement.

I hope I get to return the favor for you!

On another note...How did Friday, February 13th go with Gary Wrinkle and the staff? I am just very curious how he's going to be received now that the teachers know he is not "going away."

S

>>> JOHN CORLEY 2/23/2015 2:24 PM >>>

I called the guy. Wow.

I stayed very non-committal. I told him that our teachers primarily teach evolution but do mention creationism as being a part of the Bible and other holy books and being important to people of many different faiths. I told him that we didn't get into any specifics.

He's trying to find "science-based, not religion-based" material that supports creationism.

Nathan Corley
Associate Principal
Central High School
(225) 261-3438

Thank you for calling him! It sounds like it was the perfect answer. Was he really pushy about meeting face to face? Going to lunch? I can see one of us splashed across the Central paper with some horrific incorrect statement.

I hope I get to return the favor for you!

On another note...How did Friday, February 13th go with Gary Wrinkle and the staff? I am just very curious how he's going to be received now that the teachers know he is not "going away."

S

>>> JOHN CORLEY 2/23/2015 2:24 PM >>>

I called the guy. Wow.

I stayed very non-committal. I told him that our teachers primarily teach evolution but do mention creationism as being a part of the Bible and other holy books and being important to people of many different faiths. I told him that we didn't get into any specifics.

He's trying to find "science-based, not religion-based" material that supports creationism.

Nathan Corley
Associate Principal
Central High School
(225) 261-3438